

Overview and Self-Reflection

Title
Citation
Leadership Philosophy
Current Role as a Leader

Article Discussion

3 Takeaways from Leadership Article
--	--

This resource was developed by the ASHP New Practitioners Forum Leadership Development Advisory Group, which is providing members the opportunity to share resources that might assist in professional endeavors. ASHP is not responsible for, and does not officially endorse this resource, and further expressly disclaims any and all liability for damages of any kind arising out of the use, reference to, or reliance upon any information contained in the resource. No guarantee is provided that the content is correct, accurate, complete, up-to-date, or owned by the individual who posted it.

Impact to Self

A large, empty rounded rectangle with a thin black border, intended for users to write their reflections on the impact to self.

Impact to My
Organization

A large, empty rounded rectangle with a thin black border, intended for users to write their reflections on the impact to their organization.

Impact to My Profession

A large, empty rounded rectangle with a thin black border, intended for users to write their reflections on the impact to their profession.

Action Steps to Implement into Career

A large, empty rounded rectangle with a thin black border, intended for users to write their action steps for implementation into their career.

Questions for Discussion:

1. What is one component of the article/book that surprised you?
2. Give an example in your personal or professional life that relates to the theme of the book/article?
3. How does your organization incorporate the theme of this article/book into its structure and function?
4. What are some potential setbacks or roadblocks to implementing this leadership theme in your organization/team?
5. How does this leadership theme incorporate into your leadership philosophy?

This resource was developed by the ASHP New Practitioners Forum Leadership Development Advisory Group, which is providing members the opportunity to share resources that might assist in professional endeavors. ASHP is not responsible for, and does not officially endorse this resource, and further expressly disclaims any and all liability for damages of any kind arising out of the use, reference to, or reliance upon any information contained in the resource. No guarantee is provided that the content is correct, accurate, complete, up-to-date, or owned by the individual who posted it.